

Woman in the House

Touring September 2010

Award-winning singer/songwriter Maureen O'Brien with her original easy-listening Blues/Jazz and Contemporary Folk songs will take you on a musical journey. Engaging intimately with her audience, she will sometimes challenge you, tug at your heartstrings, or simply make you laugh. There's only one guarantee ...you won't leave a performance without being touched in some way.

Ambient, New-Age duo That's That create beautiful songs about environmental and spiritual consciousness.

With their delicious vocal harmonies, they have been performing and spreading their message through festivals, concerts, community events and more recently at an international convention.

Their songs speak of our inter-relationship with nature, the cosmos and our role as custodians of the land. The central theme is that we are all planetary caretakers.

Delightful finger-style bazouki/guitarist and distinctive vocalist Amanda Broberg crosses between folk, blues, and classic pop in an intriguing and stylish performance.

Based in the Watagan Mountains, Amanda has performed at a number of folk initiatives in the Newcastle/Hunter regions including being a support act for an international touring act at the Newcastle folk club.

[and was invited to tour with them but declined - we are privileged to have her participate in this tour]
